I've just installed version 0.12. I've tested it, and it works very well. My only problem is that a little of the sound from the logon screen for Vista appears even in Safe Mode, not just as a sound file. Also, the volume is very high.

Q: Why are some partitions empty? I have a dual boot Windows 7 & Ubuntu 12.04. Why are some of my partitions empty in Ubuntu. Can I run that Windows partition on Ubuntu? This is my fdisk -l output

A: The numbers that you're looking at are simply the index of the partition. Partitions 1 and 5 are empty because their respective master boot record and partition table are empty. It doesn't matter that they're not there, in order to boot a computer, you need either a MBR or a partition table. These partitions are entirely separate from the Ubuntu installation. I have created a small diagram to illustrate. The numbers (0-4) are just there to help you keep track of the different partitions.
